

Lund's Egg Recall

Lund Eggs has issued a “voluntary” recall on all of their egg products (please see store for more details), and although Mega Foods and Mega – Holiday stores have had a longstanding partnership with Lund Eggs, all product was immediately destroyed as per the recall requirements. All of our stores are currently being supplied with non-recalled product from a different egg producer, and we will continue to carry this product until everything has been resolved per recall requirements. As with any recall, we have steps in place at all of our Mega Foods and Mega-Holiday stores for such immediate action to be executed for our Consumer’s protection. We continue to monitor this recall and actively participate in all requirements, while continuing to provide fresh, safe product for our consumer’s needs. Please call or visit store for further questions or concerns.

